1930 FORD SPORT COUPE IS FIRST CAMPAIGN PRIZE

Current Comment

The Atlantic ocean has been spanned from east to west by two daring Frenchmen, the first to accomplish a non-stop flight from Europe to America. Before these two achieved success ten other fliers lost their lives in attempted hops across the treacherous Atlantic to American shores. Lindbergh paved the eastward passage, and now that Coste and Bellonte have demonstrated the possibility of bringing a plane from the other side of the big pond to America it will probably be but a comparatively short time until some pioneering transportation company starts regular service between the continents of Europe and North America.

In the past few days airplanes have figured in the timely arrival of injured humans to the source of proper medical and surgical attention. The other day two lads who were nearly dead from hunger and exposure after having been lost for days, were rushed to civilization and relief by airplane. A ten-year-old Nevada youngster, almost crushed to death by a falling horse, was landed by plane in San Francisco in time for surgeons to save his life. Similar feats are being accomplished almost every day. Such things contribute to the air-minded of the general public and make much better news than detailed accounts of what are in many cases unnecessary acidents.

A few days a go depuyt sheriffs lodged in the county jail a man who the night before had, from his speeding auto, fired shots from a small calibre rifle into the tents of two families of prune pickers, who drove him off the place, probably for a good reason. It is difficult for us to picture the workings of a brain so twisted as to conceive the idea of shooting at random into a tent filled with sleeping humans, most of whom were innocent children, one of whom was badly shot. When a man's skull is bereft of humane and decent impulses and is ruled by such savage instincts, it is well that he be restained indefinitely.

Pee-wee golf is giving the more mature courses a run for their money, if one may judge from the crowds htat infest the midget golf links. It will probably become increasingly popular with overweight business men who find it mush easier to toddle around thirty or forty midget holes than to stagger laboriously around 18 holes of regulation golf. Besides, holes-in-one are not infrequent upon the miniature courses while they rarely occur upon the larger areas devoted to the more strenuous game of pasture pool.

It would be a good thing for the "gallery" if national matches were played on the small courses. Grandstands could be erected and the entire game could be comfortably viewed by the followers of the grand old game. It would save a lot of shoe leather, too. A celebrated in a fitting manner. golf.

Labor Day in Hollister was farm bureau at a picnic at Mo-Union labor of that community, together with their families, were entertained by the county France." We have long thought lado park. The Rotary and Exchange clubs assisted the farm bureau at the outing. In this item we find the elements which, with the proper co-operation, have it within their power to lift the busines depression. The average business man, such as form the backbone of America's service clubs plus labor, plus the farmer, should control the destiny of the nation, rather than the self-appointed guardians of the nation's wealth.

Bill Hearst was given 36 hours to leave France, where he was viewed as an "enemy of France." We have long though that Hearst should be driven out of somewhere or some thing just on general principles.

That's all.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FLEURY K. BARTHOLOMEW FRI.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon for Fleury K. Bartholemew at the Hocking and Williams chapel in San Jose. The main services were conducted by officers and members of Charity Lodge No. 362, F. A. M. of Campbell. Interement was at the Mount Olivet cementery in San Francisco.

The accident which caused Mr. Bartholomew's death took place at Doyle-Stevens creek crossing near Cupertino. He drove his automobile across the tracks at the crossing and presumably did not see the approaching Penninsular railroad car and the motorman, George Weurth, on the car was to near to avoid a crash. The automobile was demolished and Mr. Bartholonew killed instantly.

Bartholomew was 62 years of age an a native of Michigan. He came to Santa Clara valley in 1891 and located near Campbell and has resided here since. At one time he was actively ingaged in the friut packing busness, but for years has been an orchardist on Hamilton avenue.

He was well known and liked in this community. He was past master in the local Masonic lodge an active member of the Orchard City Grange. He was a leader in many civic affairs in Campbell and was very popular man.

Pallbearers were old friends of many years standing. They were Dr. W. I. Merrill, C. H. Whitman, L. D. Bohnett, Roy Archibald, George Robson and George Whitney.

He is survived by his wife, Hatie Foote Bartholomew; two sons, Max and Roy and a brother, W. E. Bartholomew.

Many friends from Campbell attended the services to pay their last respects to him.

CAMPBELL BEATS CONSOLIDATED 7-6 LAST SUNDAY

Another fast and exciting game was held at the Campbell baseball diamond when Campbell and the Consolidated nines mixed last Sunday. It was one of the best games of the year, the score being tied several times during the game. Two home runs were made by Consolidated men, otherwise the score would have been more uneven as it was it stood 6 to7 in favor of Campbell.

The Campbell nine is one of the best teams in the valley and one of the cleanest teams. Their games draw a large crowd and up until recently the spectators either had to sit in the cars or cided to remedy it.
which was a very uncomfortable way to see a baseball game and several interested men in the community knew it and de-

Andrew Johnson was the leader in this movement. He drew up all the plans and now at the fietld there is a netw grandstand which is very well built and very suitable for the needs of this community. Antone Ferro was a very enthusiastic worker on the stand as was James Soutar and S. E. Whitney. The lumber for the stand was donated by men of this community. Campbell now has one of the finest and most up-to-date diamond in the country.

Campbell is looking for another lively team to match them this Sunday as they have no game scheduled and do not want to be idle.

HON. ARTHUR FREE TALKS AT KIWANIS CLUB TUES. EVE.

Ladies night for Kiwanis was another enjoyable social affair as well as being educational. Special music was furnished by a juvenile trio, Hugh Cramer, violin, L. Wingard, cello, and Olga Begdron, piano, which was received with much pleasure.

This club has been an interested and close observer of naval dirigible base fight and was very much pleased when Hon. Arthur M. Free who had made the big fight for the Sunnyvale base was secured as speaker. Mrs. Free and son, Herbert, was also guests at the dinner.

Mr. Free stated that as the result of a demand for dirigible base 97 proposed sights were investigated and all were dropped except the Kearney and Sunnyvale sites.

The hearings before the committee lasted for thirty days. Among the requirements are, nearness to sea level, mild climate, prevailing winds, visibility, water supply, turf, natural protections and bowl area, in all of which Sunnyvale is the superior.

At the close of the hearing an unofficial vote gave our base a vote of 15 to 6 for Kearny. This victory has been a great feather in Mr. Free's bonnet and his district is sure of his feat.

In speaking of the immigration problem, Mr. Free stated that the enforcement of acts already on the statute books will take care of this. Thet government is now endeavoring to patrol the southern border to check any crosing there. The real menace is from the island of Porto Rico. These people are citizens of this country and cannot be barred with existing laws. Thousands are entering the southern states.

Today Doc Merrill was in the chair. Lloyd Berry gave an interesting report on the district convention recently held in the south. 108 clubs were that meet will be far reaching that meet ill be far reaching by the time of next international. Stephen Merrill favored the group with two well rendered solos. Kiwanis forum will be next Tuseday. Hal Cramer, Ira Abbott and Mark Purmort wil lserve as judges. All aboard for Los Gatos Thursday. Santa Cruz will also be there will bels.

NOTICE

Several people of the three precints of Campbell were unable to vote at the primaries because they had registeretd incorrectly. Also a vote was cast out due to that person moving to another precinct and failing to re-register in that precinct before the election.

In order to vote at the general election in November, persons who could not vote, because of these errors at the primaries will have to re-register 30 days before the general election either at the office of the registrar of voters in San Jose or at G. E. Farley's real estate office in Campbell.

The clerks of the three Campbell precincts urge you to do this at once and be safe to vote this November.

ALMOND PRICES TO BE QUOTED FIRST OF NEXT WEEK

Opening prices on almonds will be in the hands of the trade on Monday morning, September 8, 1930, according to an announcement made here today by T. C. Tucker, manager of the California Almond Growers Exchange.

This definite announcement almond prices could be opened from the New York trade regarding the probable prices and plans of the Exchanfie for marketing the 1930 crop of its members.

The New York enquirers called attention to the fact that opening prices on most ecommodities this year had declined and expresed the hope that the at a level which would permit an upward trend of the market.

To these enquiries the Exchange has replied that its merchandising policy for the season will be based on prices that will move the crop into consumption.

The trade was assured that the growers want money and promises, and that the only method of giving them money is to sell their output. Also the opinion was expresed that the trade should be protected in its desire to participate in an upward market instead of the recessions which have recently marked the food commodity trades.

So the prices can be expected to be opened on a basis which will anticipate advances with a selling season favorable to both the grower and the trade.

FORTY-ONE GAME REFUGES IN STATE

SAN FANRCISCO, — California's first game refuge was located in and about Lake Merritt, Alameda county, according to historic records at the Division of Fish and Game.

Even before there were bag limits or seasons on game, the state legislature was convinced of the necessity of giving waterfowl careful protection on a lake in the city of Oakland. Therefore, in 1869 an act restricting fishing or huntin gat this location became law.

Records at the Division show that there are now forty-one game refuges in the state with a total of 2,500,000 acres. National parks and monuments increase the refuge area by 1,200,000, acres.

In selecting the locations of these game refuges the Division has made careful study both of the animal sustaning strength of the land and the percentage of hunting ground available to the hunter, according to J. S. Hunter, director of the bureau of game refuges.

Hunters and sportsmen have thousands of dollars invested in equipment and licenses, Division officials declare, and great care must be taken so as to allow them a reasonable percentage of huntable ground. The farmer is also greatly considered in this work and whenever serious crop damage from game animals is reported, scientists are immediately sent into the field to discover practical agencies of relief.

All game rfuge work is carried on in co-operation with the United States Forest Service, Hunter states, and the idea in view now is to establish a network of game refuges over the entire state which will create an endles supply o fgame in the years to come.

Sportmen throughout the state are aiding the Division in selecting and establishing natural boundary lines. No land is chosen until it has been carefully studiesd from all angles.
